

СТУДИИ НА СЛУЧАЈ ЗА ТЕСТ
Англиски јазик

1. An animal rights activist caused millions of pounds worth of damage by setting fire to shops in a campaign in protest against their sale of fur coats.
2. A man lost his temper and violently shook a seven-week-old baby because he would not stop crying, causing him to stop breathing. The baby was on a life-support machine for three days, but has now recovered.
3. Two school-children (aged 14 and 15) stabbed a 13-year-old friend repeatedly, and, thinking he was dead, tried to put his body in a garbage container. He was found 40 hours later, and has now recovered.
4. A man attacked, tortured, and killed his neighbour, before stealing money and jewellery from her home.
5. A divorced woman was hounded by an elderly neighbour for 18 months. He spied on her, accused her of being a prostitute, and sent her obscene letters.
6. A woman was found to be growing cannabis plants in her house, and was in possession of a large quantity of the drug.
7. A customs officer stole $3,500 of money that had been seized during Customs and Excise investigations.
8. A 90-year-old woman caused the death of a girl and her grandmother by dangerous driving as they crossed a road in front of her.
9. Two teenagers threatened a shop-assistant and shop keeper with syringes, which they claimed were infected with AIDS, before stealing cigarettes, tobacco, coffee, and $32 from the shop.
10. In 1998, the US president Bill Clinton was involved in a sex scandal that caused him to have to testify. He swore that he would collaborate with officials, yet further investigation led to charges of him having lied under oath.
11. In the course of the last several years, Bill Cosby's reputation has shifted from a lovable and legendary stand-up comic to a potential rapist, with charges of sexual assault surfacing. His case was brought to trial, however, after 52 hours of deliberation, over the course of five days, the jury was unable to reach a unanimous verdict, required by law.
12. A bear in Bitola, Macedonia, repeatedly raided a bee-keeper's hives, and now it has a criminal record after a court found it guilty. The bear was convicted in its absence. The bear had no owner, and belonged to a protected species, preventing the bee-keeper from harming it in any way.
13. In a case of Driving Under the Influence, with a first-time accused before the court: a 25-year-old was pulled over while driving a car that had been involved in an accident. The car was not roadworthy and the client had a high blood alcohol concentration.

14. A.K. is manager of a large sales department with over a hundred staff in six teams; a fairly senior manager. At the end of last year, a new team leader joined the department. However, about two months ago, during a regular supervision session, he reported to HR that he felt he was being victimized, demoted, under the pretense of re-organization, and prevented from moving up the corporate ladder. He submitted evidence that he had been uninformed about important department meetings, which he should have been present at, and had repeatedly been left out of important e-mail communication.
15. D. J. comes home to find his wife in bed with V.M. Upset, D.J. heads to a local bar to drown his sorrows. After having five drinks, D.J. jumps into his car and drives down the street at twice the posted speed limit. Unfortunately, he accidentally hits and kills a pedestrian while driving recklessly and intoxicated.
16. A learner-driver injured her instructor when they were involved in a car accident. The instructor tried to claim against the driver in negligence, but the question was - are learner-drivers expected to be as careful as experienced ones?
17. A 10-year-old girl hurt herself using scissors, in class, while working on a group project. There are usually three teachers that supervise, but one was absent that day, the other had stepped out for a minute, and the third teacher had been helping some other pupils when the accident happened. The girl is insured, so she will get compensation for her mild injury, but the parents are suing the school and the three teachers for negligence, and demanding the teachers' resignation.
18. Mrs. Anderson is driving a car, keeping to the speed limit, when a dog suddenly runs across the road in front of her. She brakes to avoid the dog. A man in a Jaguar behind her, driving quite fast, crashes into her and causes a lot of damage. Both drivers are slightly injured, but the dog is OK.
19. Mrs. James is stabbed by Mr. Jordan during a row and starts to lose a lot of blood. She is taken to hospital where it is said that her condition is not critical but she needs a blood transfusion. However, she belongs to a religious sect which does not believe in blood transfusions, so she refuses to have one, and dies.
20. Mr. and Mrs. Davies were married for 18 years and had one daughter. Mr. Davies was discovered to be having an affair with his secretary, who he later married, after his first wife divorced him. Mr. Davies's daughter, from his first marriage, refused to speak to him after the divorce. His second wife stayed with him until his death, looking after him. Mr. Davies did not leave a will and now various family members, present and former, are fighting for his money.