I INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

The Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors of the Republic of Macedonia (hereafter the Academy) continued throughout 2013 to pursue its vision and mission and promote itself as a modern institution for training of the justice system, ensuring that judges and prosecutors respect democratic principles, the rule of law, human rights and freedoms, social justice and the principles of international law, as well as common European values, on which the integration of the Republic of Macedonia in the European Union rests.

To this end, the Academy continued to strengthen the partnership with training institutions from the countries of the region and the member states of the European Union, especially in the area of implementation of training modules for fight against terrorism and organised crime, as an integral component of the foreign policy of the Republic of Macedonia. With the aim of successful implementation of the process of harmonisation of domestic legislation with EU legislation, the Academy continued the realisation of another very significant activity, namely translation and publishing of rulings of the European Court of Human Rights and other relevant documents, thus contributing to strengthening the efficiency of the justice system of the Republic of Macedonia.

The Academy has since its establishment been a member of and has taken active part in the activities of international bodies and organisations, exchanging experience and knowledge, with the aim of improving the quality and efficiency and strengthening the capacities of the justice system. The commitment of the Academy for its participation in activities of all important bodies of the European Union and the Council of Europe, such as the JTN, the Council of Europe's GRECO Committee, the Consultative Council of European Judges (CCJE), the European Commission for the Efficiency of Justice (CEPEJ) and many others, will continue in future, as they represent significant sources of comparative information and documents to ensure a high quality and efficient justice system and an exceptional opportunity for promoting the justice system of the Republic of Macedonia.

The Academy receives strong support from the international community aimed at strengthening its capacities through a number of projects, concluded or ongoing, implemented in collaboration with the Embassies of the USA, United Kingdom, Germany, France and the Netherlands, thus continuing to achieve a "crucial role in the improvement of the knowledge and skills of judges and prosecutors", as stated in the last European Commission's Report on the Progress of the Republic of Macedonia.

➤ “MACEDONIAN CASE LAW” PROJECT FOR STRENGTHENING THE CAPACITIES OF THE MACEDONIAN JUDICIARY (MATRA)

The Project comprised three components with a number of activities contributing to the improvement and strengthening of the role and utilisation of case law in the domestic legal system, thus increasing the awareness on the role of case law as additional source, and improving the access to and use of domestic and international case law.

In the course of 2013, the activities of the final component of this project were realised, resulting in the design and establishment of a new web portal within the web page of the Supreme Court of the RM (www.odluki.sud.mk or www.vsrn.mk). This portal provides access, in addition to translated relevant decisions of the European Court for Human Rights against other countries, 38 in number, also to relevant court decisions of national appellate courts, in particular from civil and commercial departments. This is the first successful effort in the national justice system to house in one place over 200 domestic decisions, important for building the body of domestic case law. This portal is open to all who have a vested interest in or desire to become closely familiarised with the relevant domestic and international case law, which is especially important for strengthening the awareness on the role of this non-formal source of law, and thus strengthening legal protection and public confidence in the judicial system.

➤ BRITISH COUNCIL

In the course of 2013 and 2014, the British Council is implementing together with the Ministry of Labour and Social Policy of the RM, a project on raising the awareness among employees in state institutions and authorities on the concept of equality, with the aim of proper application of the Law on Protection and Prevention of Discrimination.

The Academy is a partner in this Project in the area of training for the justice system. In the course of 2013, and within the framework of these activities, 6 training events were carried out, of which four for representatives of the court administration, and two for judges from the appellate regions of Gostivar and Bitola. The training covered 120 participants in total, in line with the Action Plan for implementation of project activities.

This project will continue also during the first three months of 2014, when three additional training events will take place.

THE OSCE MONITORING MISSION IN SKOPJE – RULE OF LAW UNIT

The Rule of Law Unit of the OSCE Skopje Mission has in the course of recent years provided valuable support for further development of effective and sustainable mechanisms for rule of law in accordance with the principles of OSCE and the international obligations of the state through implementation of projects that strengthen the rule of law, encouraging the independence of the justice system and enhancing the professionalism of legal experts.

In addition to the collaboration with the Monitoring Mission of OSCE in Skopje which pertains to the realisation of a project for advanced training on the new Criminal Procedure Code, the Academy collaborated with the Mission also on the realisation of the following projects:

The OSCE Mission and the Rule of Law Unit (RoLD), in strategic partnership with the Academy, implemented the project on protection from discrimination, hate crimes and the phenomenon of hate speech. As a result of the activities carried out in 2011 and 2012, several events were organised in the course of 2013, following the planned training programme on the concept of equality. One of the events for training of trainers was attended by judges, attorneys at law and representatives of the Constitutional Court of the RM, and in the second half of the year two more two-day training events were held for dissemination of the knowledge by the trainer teams attending the initial training event. Through these activities, over 50 participants were given the opportunity to expand their knowledge towards strengthening the capacities of law practitioners in the area of non-discrimination.

As support to the practitioners, and within the framework of this module, a Guide on the Role of the Commission for Protection against Discrimination and Shifting of the Burden of Proof was developed, and a publication was prepared containing 13 relevant decisions of the ECtHR and the Court of the European Union in Luxemburg, which directly elaborate discrimination on various grounds and which are often referred to by judges in these international courts.

Within the framework of the collaboration of the Academy with the OSCE Mission, a module was developed for judges and public prosecutors addressing hate crime. Within this module, three events were organised, one for training of future trainers delivered by international and domestic experts from the respective field, and two events as two-day seminars for the four appellate regions, in the form of an interest forum for exchange of experiences on this sensitive type of crime. Following the expressed interest, this collaboration will continue in 2014 through an even greater support provided by the OSCE Mission in Skopje.

XI LIBRARY

The Library of the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors plays a major role in advancing the knowledge of future judges and public prosecutors, as well as updating the knowledge of current judges and public prosecutors, and that of the administrative staff in the courts and Public prosecutor's Office.

To that end, the library continues to enrich its corpus with legal texts, domestic and foreign legal literature and professional journals. Thus, the Academy is able to offer to its users a broad spectre of legal texts and links to data bases that it published on its web-page. The Library has enriched its library collection with several new publications in whose preparation, promotion and distribution it took an active part, and these are listed in detail in this report.

Within the framework of the IPA project, the new library software was fully upgraded, allowing easier processing of the publications that are a part of the library corpus. By the end of 2013, over 1100 publications were introduced in the internal e-library data base, and it can be concluded that the library data is now available to its end users.

In order to ensure greater transparency and broader access to as much as possible information related to law, in the course of the whole year the Academy published on its web page the bulletins of the International Anticorruption Academy– IACA, as well as other relevant texts sent to the Academy by legal experts and practitioners. XIV EVALUATION

Evaluation of the continuing training of judges and public prosecutors is done through Evaluation Questionnaires that are filled out at the end of each Consultation. These forms provide information about the success of the offered programme, the success of the overall event, and the quality of presentation of lecturers. Thus, these questionnaires are conducive to ascertaining the effects of the Consultation, and to improving the quality of instruction of the lecturers, and serve as a source of broader information about the needs of the target groups.

The data received indicates an exceptionally high level of satisfaction of participants from the training events, the manner in which they are organised, the selection of topics, usefulness to participants, choice of lectures and their manner of presentation. Such data serves also as an additional incentive for the Academy to continue working on such training events, with the aim of maintaining and improving the high standards of quality.

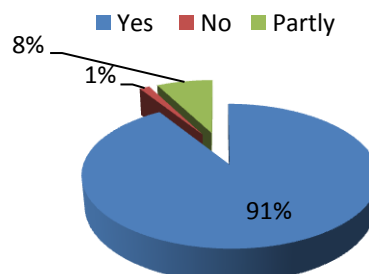

The Evaluation Questionnaires are summarised in an Annual Questionnaire Summary, and the data thereof are given in the graphs below.
